The Hancock County Sheriff's Office is investigating an incident that occurred in the Kiln community on Tuesday afternoon in which a father allegedly shot his son multiple times.

"The incident is still under investigation," Chief Deputy Don Bass said Tuesday evening. "A suspect is in custody, not yet charged. The victim is at University Hospital in New Orleans, still in surgery."

The shooting was reported at a little after 4 p.m. Tuesday. It occurred at a residence off Amos Cuevas Road in Kiln. The victim was transported to the Standard-Dedeaux Ball Field, where a Life Flight helicopter picked him up to fly him to the hospital.

Authorities had not released the names of either the suspect or the victim at press time Tuesday.

MAKING HISTORY: Gov. Phil Bryant signs first rare disease legislation in state of Mississippi

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

Gov. Phil Bryant on Monday signed Senate Bill No. 2463 into state law, the first legislation for rare diseases in Mississippi.

Bryant was surrounded by Josh and Angel Myers, parents of seven-year-old Sophia Myers, who passed away last October from Diffuse Intrinsic Pontine Glioma; Amber Olsen and Thomas Cannan, parents of four-year-old Willow Cannan who is fighting Multiple Sulfatase Deficiency; and 12-year-old Levi Krystosek who has Jansen's Metaphyseal Chondroplasia.

District 46 Sen. Philip Moran and District 52 Sen. Brice Wiggins authored the bill and it will "provide that the University of Mississippi Medical Center as the lead agency, together with the state department of health, the division of Medicaid and the Mississippi Health Information Network, shall cooperate with other in preparing a comprehensive report on the state of rare diseases in Mississippi."

The bill also states that a "comprehensive" report shall be presented to chairs of certain legislative committees no later than Dec. 1, 2019.

Both senators also witnessed the historic event, as did Nancy Depreo, Mississippi Volunteer State Ambassador for the Rare Action Network, which falls under the umbrella of the National Organization for Rare Disorders.

"This is important and SB2463 will allow us to go and learn more about rare diseases in Mississippi

A Hancock County man was arrested last week for allegedly molesting an eight-year-old child.

Hancock County Justice Facility records show Henry D. Faulkner, 58, of Bayside Park, was arrested Friday and charged with one count of sexual battery.

"The child involved in it is an acquaintance of the family," Hancock Chief Deputy Don Bass said. "The incident (allegedly) happened a week or more before the arrest. The child reported it to the mother and the mother reported it to us. An investigation ensued, and Faulkner was identified as a suspect and booked accordingly."

The case is still under investigation, Bass said.

Bond was set at $10,000, but Faulkner was still being held at the Hancock County Justice Facility at press time Tuesday.

A court hearing in the case has been scheduled for July 10.

Stay free from drunk driving this July Fourth

SEA COAST ECHO

JACKSON, MISS. – Independence Day celebrates the nation's cherished asset – our freedom. The Mississippi Department of Transportation (MDOT) urges all Mississippians to keep free from drunk driving this holiday.

According to American Automobile Association (AAA), a record 44.2 million people were traveled over the Fourth of July holiday last year.

The same or more are predicted to travel this Independence Day.

"July Fourth is the time to display not only patriotism but also safety and responsibility," said Melinda McGrath, P.E., MDOT executive director. "Show your love for this country by keeping it safe and never letting anyone, including yourself, drive impaired."

During the 2016 Fourth of July holiday, 188 people were killed in crashes involving at least one driver with a blood alcohol concentration (BAC) of 0.08 or higher, according to National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), it was a 28 percent increase from 2015. Nearly half of those who died were in a vehicle crash involving at least one driver with a BAC of 0.15 or higher – almost twice the legal limit.

To enjoy a safe and responsible holiday, MDOT suggests the following:

- Plan ahead and designate a sober driver before drinking.
- If you are impaired, call a taxi, sober friend or family member or use public transportation.
- If you see a drunk driver on the road, do not hesitate to call local law enforcement.
- If you see someone who is about to drive or ride while impaired, take their keys and help them make other arrangements to arrive home safely.

MDOT has accepted the Toward Zero Deaths (TZD) as a part of its highway safety plan, and reducing impaired driving is a major component towards that vision.

TZD is a national safety strategy that Mississippi adopted to bring stakeholders together towards a common vision. That vision is a highway system free of fatalities through a sustained decline in transportation-related deaths and injuries.

Every year, traffic crashes claim the lives of more than 32,000 people in the United States –that's 32,000 people taken from their family and friends.

This holiday, Mississippi law enforcement will be on duty to put an end to drunk driving through increased sobriety checkpoints, roving and saturation patrols and other enforcement efforts.

Stay independent from drunk driving this Fourth of July. Remember, buzzed driving is drunk driving.

For more safety tips from MDOT, visit www.GoMDOT.com/drivesmartms.

The Mississippi Department of Transportation (MDOT) is responsible for providing a safe intermodal transportation network that is planned, designed, constructed and maintained in an effective, cost-efficient and environmentally sensitive manner. MDOT's objective is to maximize taxpayer's dollars by providing a safe, efficient multimodal network that enhances economic stability and growth. For more information, visit GoMDOT.com.

Clean and Punctual

For the better part of the past 40 years, I have spent a significant amount of time both promoting and organizing beautification efforts in Hancock County, in an ongoing effort to help make our community a better place to live.

When I was very young, my mother taught my three brothers and I to keep our yard clear of litter. Cleanliness was almost as important to her as promptness.

In our house, you were on time or you were in trouble. If you didn't make it to the dinner table at the exact time you were supposed to be there, you didn't eat.

I don't remember missing too many meals, and I don't believe either of my brothers or I ever missed a school bus. Even though the last three years of school, I had my 1936 Plymouth rather than riding the school bus, I was still always on time for school or wherever it was I needed to be. In today's world, there seem to be far too many people who have not learned how to be punctual.

My brothers and I had many chores, and our mother would post a weekly schedule so we would all know what was expected of each of us. It taught us not only how to be responsible, but also how to work together. That was an important skill to have during the Depression era, and one which has helped me time and again in later years.

About 40 years ago, then-Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver asked me to join the Bay's Beautification Committee. In the years since, I have served as chairman for the Hancock County Beautification Committee; the Mississippi Debris Coastal Cleanup Board; and on the beautification committee formed by Hancock County government.

I can remember back in the very early 1980s when the Hancock County Board of Supervisors formed a Beach Task Force and I was named as the vice-chairman of the group. We conducted our first beach cleanup two years before the Mississippi Beach and Islands Coastal Cleanup committee was even formed. I was then named Hancock County's representative to that body.

I will never forget the Saturday of the first the Hancock County Board of Supervisors cleanup. We had more than 425 volunteers join the cause.

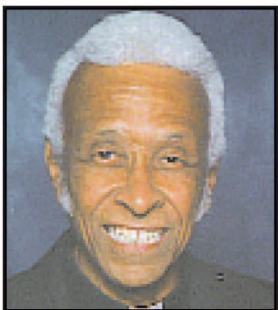

It took us several months to form that group, with many trips to Alabama and Florida to see what folks were doing in other beach communities.

It's been hard for me to kind of slow down a bit due to health concerns, but I'm happy to see that other folks and some new faces have stepped up to the plate to help keep beautification efforts going. As I learned working with my brothers all those many years ago, we should all do our fair share. Let's Keep Hancock County Beautiful.

Will we see God face to face?

June 15, 2018 email from Art Magaldi ignited the following discussion.

Fr. L.,
Just read the two articles and the second one reminds me of a point I discussed with a couple of priests recently. It's a small point, but it's interesting to me. The question is whether the just will actually see the face of God. One of the two priests said that God was spirit and therefore there really wasn't a face to see. I have a problem with that interpretation because the Scriptures mention seeing the face of God, e.g., I believe the psalmist asks, "When will I see the face of God?" I think Jesus is also quoted as saying that the Guardian Angels of little children look on the face of his Father in heaven (not sure of this exact wording, however). Non-scripturally, Dante in his "Divine Comedy" says that the greatest happiness

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

by Fr. Jerome Ledoux, SVD

of those who make it to heaven is to look on the face of God and see the great love God radiates for people. I'm quite sure you will know many more of the liturgical and scriptural references to God's face.

So, although it's a small point, what do you think about this? Maybe this would even fit in some small sense with Sister Dianne's discussion of our gut feelings about who God is. Art responded, "Theologically," I don't doubt that God has no face, for God, as the angels, is a pure spirit with no physical parts attached. What we read in the Scriptures about God's face indicates the intended readership of the Bible, most of whom had nothing beyond a few grades' education, if even that. They would not have understood any cerebral presentation of God.

"For the same reason, the Bible, especially the Old Testament, is written in an anthropomorphic way; meaning that God is described in human form and feelings. The readers knew nothing else. Imagine the untaught fishermen of the Old and New Testaments trying to wrestle with theological concepts such as Saint Augustine and Saint Thomas Aquinas offered us. Even with our supposed education, we wrestle.

"Interestingly, the Baltimore catechism states that God cannot be seen with bodily eyes. Will we have spiritual eyes? This implies that, somehow, we will know

God fully in a non-physical, spiritual way. We don't grasp that either. Frankly, I'll be

July 1, 2018
2 more than content just to make it into heaven. God bless you, JL"

With all our so-called sophistication, we are little different from the people of the Old Testament who embraced all the anthropomorphic depictions of God.

One big confirmation of what Art is talking about is the huge attraction of so many folks to cloud formations that spur our imagination into seeing the face of God or Jesus or the angels in the sky. Several decades ago, I

Snakes in Mississippi, Part 2

This is the second part of a two-part column regarding snakes in Mississippi.

As discussed in the last column, the arrival of spring and summer is accompanied by more outdoor activities, especially water activities, and an increase in encounters with reptiles.

"Most people will be quick to admit that they have a real fear of snakes. Even the slightest mention of the word 'snake' may cause some people to become uneasy. This fear of snakes is a learned behavior which is brought on by years of listening to legends and superstitions concerning snakes," states Rob Ballinger, a wildlife biologist for Wildlife Mississippi.

The problem most people encounter is the ability to properly identify snakes. Of the 50 plus species of snakes found in Mississippi, only six are poisonous. They are the copperhead, cottonmouth (or water moccasin), pygmy rattlesnake, timber (or canebrake) rattlesnake, Eastern diamondback rattlesnake, and the coral snake. The first five are pit vipers. The coral snake is akin to cobras. There are approximately 100 to 200 venomous snake bites per year in Mississippi.

Ballinger states that when a snake is encountered, the best thing to do is leave it alone. Avoidance is the best policy. Most people bitten by snakes have provoked the snake either intentionally or by accident. Contrary to popular belief, snakes are not aggressive. When spending time in the outdoors, always try to walk in clear areas, paying close attention to where you are stepping. Wear leather boots at least 10" high. When fishing, watch the tree limbs where the snakes may be basking in the sun.

According to Dr. William McKell of Ridgeland, Mississippi, in the event of a snake bite, try to stay as calm as possible. Any increase in heart rate will, in turn, increase the rate that venom is distributed throughout the body. If possible, kill and identify the snake. Arrange for transportation to a hospital emergency room immediately. Try to position the bitten area below the level of the heart.

Remove watches, rings, and other constricting jewelry.

Incision and suction are no longer recommended. "Tourniquets" are out. It is, however, almost universally recommended that a large "constricting band" at a level between the bite site and the heart be applied. Taking care not to constrict arterial blood flow, this band should allow your little finger to slip under it. Do not use ice for it has been shown to cause further tissue damage. If the patient is within an hour or so from an emergency room, first aid measures such as the constricting band may be omitted.

"Snakes are an important ecological component and are useful to all of us because they consume large numbers of rodents. Never try to kill a snake unless it is threatening your life or the life of another person," concluded Ballinger.

Ponthieux confirmed an officer had killed the dog in a press release posted on the department's Facebook page. Ponthieux said officers from the department had been called to the 600 block of Spanish Acres Drive at around 7:30 p.m. Saturday "in response to three separate 911 calls reporting two large German shepherd dogs at large. The callers reported that the dogs were being aggressive towards other animals and residents in the area."

Ponthieux said officers and an on-call animal control officer were dispatched to the location and, when they arrived on the scene, "observed two large German shepherds. Both dogs displayed signs of aggression by charging at the officers. Officers used pepper spray in an attempt to deter the aggressive behavior of the dogs. Officers were able to safely secure one dog in a patrol vehicle. The second dog made several aggressive charges towards the officers who were standing in the roadway. During the final charge in to the roadway, one officer fired a single shot, fatally wounding the dog. The incident was recorded by officers' body camera video."

Ponthieux said the surviving dog was released to its owners, but the dog that had been killed was transported to the Hancock County Animal Shelter.

On Sunday, the department's administration met with the dog owners and other family members, Ponthieux said, and the family was allowed to review the video.

"The department's administration has thoroughly reviewed this incident and concluded that the officer was justified in his actions," Ponthieux said. "While the loss of a family's dog is always regretful, the safety of our officers and citizens must remain paramount."

Chase Favre, owner of the two German shepherds, disputes the police department's account and alleges his dog Kodak was "executed."

"The video clearly shows the officer enter the yard on multiple occasions and Kodak walking down the sidewalk showing no signs of aggression," Favre wrote on Facebook. "The officer retreated back to the street and Kodak retreated back to the porch several times. ... Bay PD reported that animal control unit was on scene, however, after reviewing the video, at no time did we see animal control approach Kodak. Only the officer making several attempts on the property to agitate Kodak to lure him to the street to execute Kodak. Per witnesses, the animal control unit did not even show up until 20 minutes after Kodak was murdered. Per the video that we were shown, the officer stated 'If he comes out one more time I'm going to pop his ass.' After Kodak was shot by the officer, he then stated 'See, I told you I don't play.' There are still many unanswered questions and we will pursue this until we have justice for Kodak."

Jess Favre, a former police officer and Chase's dad, bred both Kodak and the other dog, Zeus, and had them both trained at PSD Kennels in Poplarville. He was among the Favre family members allowed to review the officers' body cam footage at Bay P.D. and concurs with Chase Favre's conclusion.

"The only thing that we can get out of this is that the officer pre-meditated what was going to happen to this dog," Jess Favre said.

Normally, Kodak and Zeus were kept in a fenced-in back yard, he said.

"They were in the back yard and the younger pup (Zeus) had dug a whole under the fence and the others followed suit," Favre said. "Witnesses started saying that the dogs were on the front porch, were non-aggressive."

"There were three officers, there was never animal control there during the time the dog was shot. The other two officers stayed by their cruiser and the supervisor kept taunting the dog."

The officer played with Zeus for a minute, then walked him over to the police cruiser, Favre said.

"The same officer made several attempts to walk into the yard," he said. "The dog would bark, the officer would retreat back to the street, the dog would return back to the porch."

From what the family saw of the video, he said, "once they detained the younger pup, the officer made five attempts to walk into the yard. ... Kodak was not trained to attack, he's trained for obedience. He would bark, as a normal dog would do to protect his property. The video supports what the witnesses are saying."

Favre said animal control does not appear in the video at all, and the family has seen no evidence that either dog was maced.

"There was nothing on (Zeus) that would even remotely draw us to the conclusion that the dog was maced," he said.

"We've already secured a counsel," Favre said. "We don't want any kind of monetary damages. We just want to make sure that people are aware, that if your dog is loose, unbeknownst to you, that this is what could happen to your dog."

The Favres also dispute that there were three 911 calls about the dogs being aggressive.

"After talking to the neighbors, the next-door neighbor only called the police for the welfare of the dog."

"We just want Bay P.D. to release the body cam footage," Favre said. "I back the blue. I'm a big advocate of all police officers, but this is uncalled for. ... The body cam footage will show what the officer's intent was."

saw two rather sharp photos of cloud formations that made good depictions of the God of our imagination. There are also sunrise and sunset shots that fire our religious sensibilities. These are the same kind of phenomena that so inspired many of the Old Testament Psalms. This has birthed a singular YouTube genre featuring cloud formations and Godly texts.

God dreams are another great fascination that we humans experience. I have had only one God dream, and that occurred over sixty years ago. First, understand that I have been close to bees all my adult life. I even took care of six beehives in college in Epworth, Iowa. In the dream, I was walking among beehives when I came upon a pre-teen child. The bees were restless, almost threatening, around me. But, as the child approached them, they bumped gently into the forehead and face of the child with kisses and caresses. Sporting hazel eyes that seemed to be staring into eternity, the child said softly, "Before Abraham came to be, I am." It was the only God dream I ever had, but it was a doozy, making a profound impression on me.

When we meditate or contemplate, we struggle valiantly with various kinds of imagery, straining to accommodate ourselves to some image or sculpture. Thus, masters of the brush and chisel created masterpieces of art, such as Leonardo da Vinci's Last Supper of Jesus and his apostles, Michelangelo's rendering of creation or the Last Judgment, Michelangelo's sculpture of the Pietà or Moses or David, and countless other magnificent pieces that hold us in meditation and awe. Unbeknown even to themselves, scarce religious people are thereby swept up into meditation.

All the above and numerous other people and things in our lives comprise our anthropomorphic connections with God that, say what we may, are our best means of communing with the Almighty. One obvious stab at communing with God are the scores of movies made about God and our human-divine relationships.

gates accidents to determine probable cause and make recommendations to prevent similar accidents in the future." The NTSB also has the legal authority to collect evidence, he added.

"I'm here to collect the facts and circumstances," he said. "I'm an investigator, I collect these items and the evidence. I will petition experts both inside and outside the government to assist me in assembling the evidence."

Raynor said he presents that evidence in a "factual report" to the five member board, which is appointed by the President of the United States and confirmed by the Senate.

"Only the five members can determine the probable cause of an accident," he said. "So even I know precisely what occurred, I cannot make a probable cause statement to you or the public at large."

Raynor said Saturday he could speak to the facts about Friday's crash involving one pilot and a Cessna 172, which occurred about 7 a.m. Friday morning.

"Our understanding, in preliminary radar data, indicates that the gentlemen flying the airplane was doing practice traffic patterns at the Diamondhead airport," Raynor said. "On what appears to be the fifth takeoff, the airplane crashed in the woods on the north side of the interstate just beyond the departure of the runway at Diamondhead. The airplane was destroyed and the student pilot was fatally injured."

Along with Raynor, an airframe expert, a power plant expert and an inspector from the Federal Aviation Administration are investigating the accident.

Raynor said the "airplane was consumed by the post-crash fire."

"It's extremely unlikely that we'll get any evidence from the instruments or what the settings might have been on in the avionics in the instrument panel," Raynor said.

The power plant will be harvested from wreckage and examined, he added. The aircraft and pilot's log book have also been made available to the team, he said.

"With the team I have assembled and the evidence we have gathered so far, I'm confident that I'll be able to provide the five member board with the factual data necessary for them to determine a probable cause," Raynor said.

With regards to a timeline for the investigation, Raynor said three reports are produced: A preliminary, factual and brief report or an analysis. The brief report or analysis is published by the board.

Raynor said the investigation could take up to a year.

Raynor said that the plane's wreckage will mostly likely be removed from the site by Saturday evening and transported to a recovery facility in Jacksonville, Florida.

Officials have not yet released the victim's identity.

The family of a business owner has tentatively identified the pilot. The man has been identified as Premnathan "Prem" Naidoo, 69, a business owner and research & development chemist, who was a student pilot.

Hancock County Coroner Jim Faulk said

Monday that investigators cannot legally identify the pilot of the crashed Cessna 172 until an odontologist finishes his work.

Faulk said authorities were "99.9 percent sure" of the man's identity, but said authorities cannot yet publicize his name until the dental records are thoroughly examined.

Naidoo was the founder of Asphalt & Wax Innovation, LLC. According to the company's website, it "commenced operations in April 2006 under the ownership of Prem Naidoo who retired from 30 years service with Shell International and 10 years service with Sasol International as Research & Development Chemist. AWI performs research and development, quality control, and consultation for all aspects of the roofing and paving industries."

"Green Asphalt Technologies, LLC (GAT) was registered and started operations in September 2008 and is operated by (Prem's son) Terry Naidoo. GAT has a mission to develop eco-friendly solutions to enhance and benefit the asphalt industry as a whole. Specifically, GAT focus is on the responsible usage of recycled asphalt pavements and shingles going into the asphalt pavements of today."

Both companies operate primarily in the research and technology development field, forging relationships with other suitable companies for sales, marketing, and commercialization, according to the website.

RICHARD JOSEPH "FUZZY" FERRY

Richard Joseph "Fuzzy" Ferry, at the age of 80, quietly passed away on Wednesday, June 20, 2018, surrounded by his loving family. Richard, the second child of Charlie and Libby Ferry, graduated in 1955 from St. Joseph Seminary in St. Benedict, LA. He attended St. Joseph Abbey College and then joined the Navy in 1957. After 26 years and three tours in Vietnam, Dick "retired" from the military in 1981. After his retirement, he and his family moved to Biloxi, MS, where he operated Ferry Enterprises. Dick remained there until the passing of his dearly loved wife, Phyllis Allison Ferry, in 2012. He moved into the Ferry Family home in Waveland in 2013. Richard was an active member of St. Clare Parish in Waveland, the St. Clare Knights of Columbus Council 16433, and the VFW Post 2434 in Biloxi.

He was preceded in death by two of his sisters, Jane Smolensky and Ann Wright, by a brother, George Ferry, by a sister-in-law, Joan Ferry, and by an ex-brother-in-law, Philip Wright.

Cherishing Fuzzy's life are three daughters: Alyson Randall (Rick), Michaelle Shingleton (Buz), and Ellen Ferry, one son, Richard J. Ferry, Jr. (Dawn), eight grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Dick is also survived by his eight remaining siblings and in-laws: Chuck, Mary Ann, Jim, Frank (Dianne), Gene (Mary Lou), Al, Louis Smolensky, Michael (Jude), Susan, and Linda Pitts (Paul).

Visitation from 11am - noon at St. Clare on Thursday, June 28. A Mass in celebration of Dick's life will be said at noon. In lieu of flowers, Richard asked that donations be given to St. Clare Catholic Church in Waveland. Interment Friday at Biloxi National Cemetery.

Rare

and what we can do about them," Bryant said.

Depreo said she thanks Moran and Wiggins for authoring this bill.

"It's an honor to serve as the volunteer State Ambassador for the Rare Action Network," she said. "For the past three years, we have celebrated Rare Disease Day at our state capitol and met with legislators and Gov. Bryant. We are most thankful to Gov. Bryant and the legislators for passing this legislation and letting everyone know that Mississippi cares about Rare!"

Levi is from Ocean Springs and is one of 28 children worldwide to have a confirmed diagnosis and one of six confirmed cases in the U.S., his mother Dona said.

Jansen's Metaphyseal Chondroplasia is a "rare and debilitating form of dwarfism," she said.

"It causes a lot of pain and the bones grow deformed," Dona said.

Levi was also diagnosed with optic nerve atrophy, chronic kidney disease stage 1 and hypocalcaemia. Dona said the optic nerve in Levi's right eye is nearly dead. Doctors have also reconstructed his eardrums and removed his adenoids. He also underwent a realignment of both of his ankles. The high levels of calcium in his blood is not absorbed by his bones, Dona added.

This year, Levi will be facing some major surgeries. In August, he is scheduled to have plates inserted below his knees to prevent the bones from bending.

Since his back curves at 57 percent, doctors will insert rods into his back in November, Dona said.

"It will be bad for his organs if his back continues to bend," she said.

During his consultations, Levi is always present to hear what the doctor has to say or what procedures to perform next.

"I've always told him he can do this painful test and it may not help you, but for science to move forward, they have to have samples," Dona said. "He's such a trooper, willing and brave. But if at any point he wants to stop with the procedures, we'll stop."

Given the rarity of Levi's condition, it's often difficult to find specialists close by and have the means to travel there. Two of Levi's specialist are in Chicago and Delaware.

Dona found out about Miracle Flights, a non-profit organization that flies children with rare conditions to specialists.

"Levi was their 100,000th flyer," she said.

Now, Dona is a family advocate for the group and performs outreach.

"They fly so many children with rare conditions to go where the care is," she said.

Dona said that Levi's personality is huge and he has an "unstoppable spirit."

"He's very outgoing and doesn't meet a stranger," she said.

Levi was born with visible birth defects, she said, and underwent reconstructive surgery on his head.

"People would stare and whisper," Dona said. "I have two older daughters and I knew how I handled it would dictate how they handled it. We decided to share him with the community."

Now, people approach Levi with a different attitude, she said.

"The way I feel, sharing him will open doors," she said. "Families find us. We share a resource and tell them how we do it. It's also been beneficial to us, as well. That's how we found his doctor in Chicago."

Dona and Levi's father Joseph both agreed that SB2463 is a "huge" step in the right direction.

"I know how it feels when the doctor gives you a rare diagnosis and you can't find information or resources on it," Dona said. "It was a spontaneous genetic mutation that I've never heard of before."

Levi, who said he previously met Bryant at the Governor's Mansion during a visit to Jackson, said it's good to look at rare diseases.

"I don't know that much about it, there's no books," Levi said. "And maybe if it can't help me, it can help other kids. We need research about it. We do have people trying to find a cure to slow it down and possibly stop it in its tracks."

Low turn-out for Baria-Sherman primary runoff

BY GEOFF BELCHER
NEWS EDITOR

Mississippi Rep. David Baria squared off against Howard Sherman in the Democratic primary runoff for U.S. Senate on Tuesday. Although results were not available by press time Tuesday, election officials said voter turn-out was "exceptionally low."

Hancock Circuit Clerk Karen Ladner Ruhr said the turn-out was low for the June 5 primary, as well, with just 13 percent of registered voters casting ballots state-side. According to Secretary of State Delbert Hosemann's office, voters were just "trickling in" for the runoff on Tuesday.

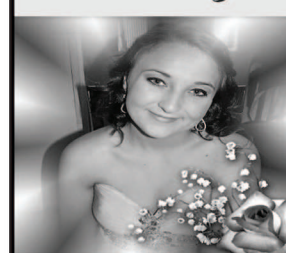

Baria and Sherman ran neck-and-neck in the June 5 primary election, which saw a crowded field of six candidates. In Hancock County, Baria was the clear winner, earning 1,110 votes to Sherman's 50. However, state-wide, Sherman scored the lead, with 27,358 votes -- or 31.9 percent; and Baria earned 26,568 votes, or 31 percent. Their next-closest opponent was Baria's fellow state legislator Omeria Scott, who earned 20,642 votes, or 24.1 percent.

The winner of Tuesday's runoff election will face incumbent U.S. Sen. Roger Wicker, winner of the Republican primary, in the November general election.

This is a Dinosaur!

A Tyrannosaurus to be exact. T-Rex was a large, ferocious meat eating creature which became extinct 65 million years ago as the result of the impact of a large meteorite.

Newspapers are NOT dinosaurs!

Radio. Then television. Later cable news. Now social media. Each one in its time was rumored to be the end of newspapers. Hasn't happened.

Advertise your business on social media sites and your friends might see it. Put that message in the newspaper and the entire community will see it. Which one do you really think will get the best results?

Bay artist's work featured in Alabama

SEA COAST ECHO

Bay St. Louis artist Herb Willey is making a big splash in other parts of the country with his "Gulf of America" solo exhibit on display at the Eastern Shore Art Center in Fairhope, Ala., and a painting on display at the Ft. Smith Regional Art Museum in Ark.

"We've got more coastline than Mexico does," Willey pondered, "so why isn't it the Gulf of America?" That idea sparked his exhibit of more than 40 watercolors on display at the Eastern Shore Art Center, located at 401 Oak Ave. in Fairhope. The exhibit will continue through July 28.

Willey, 78, began painting in childhood, then majored in fine art at the University of Louisiana at Lafayette. He eventually founded his own advertising firm in New Orleans.

As a self-employed designer from 1965-2003, Herb won awards from companies including Mercury Outboard Motors and Cook Chemical Company. His primary watercolor instruction was with the well known New Orleans watercolorist, Harrel Gray and his work was on display at the Old Quarter Gallery in the French Quarter during the 90's. Herb is a full-time Bay St Louis resident.

Herb Willey

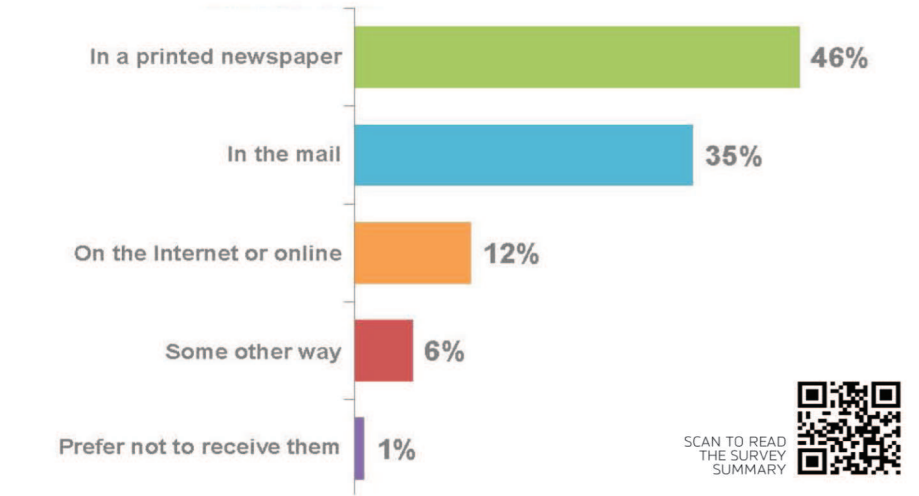

His watercolor pieces have been juried and honored in regional, national and international shows including the Arts of Hancock County, The Gulf Coast Art Association, the Ocean Springs Art Association, The Pass Christian Art Association annual shows and the River Road Show in Baton Rouge. Willey was granted Master Membership by the International Watercolor Society Global division based in Hong Kong in 2017.

The government's business is your business.

And Mississippians count on their newspapers to keep apprised of public notice advertising.

Half of Mississippi adults recall reading or seeing public notice advertising in a local or state newspaper.

And almost half (46%) of adults who have seen public notice advertising prefer to receive them in a printed newspaper, much higher than any other source.

Most Mississippians (87%) say keeping the public informed through public notices and legal advertising is an important requirement for government agencies. And the preferred method of receiving these notices is in a printed newspaper along with their associated web-sites.

According to a 2013 Advertising and Media Use Survey*, legal ads in printed newspapers have a much higher credibility than other media.

Over 1.5 million Mississippians read their local newspaper. Whether in print, online or on the go, newspapers are the leading source of information for Mississippi.

Fall floral workshops offered, beginning Sept. 20

BY MS. SUSAN M. COLLINS-SMITH
MSU EXTENSION SERVICE

BILOXI, Miss. -- Floral enthusiasts can learn how to make a variety of fall floral arrangements and décor during several workshops from September to December.

Jim DelPrince, horticulture specialist with the Mississippi State University Extension Service, and his special guests Julie Poeltler and Wanda Norton will show participants how to design several seasonal arrangements.

Poeltler is the owner of Julie's Fountain of Flowers in Lone Tree, Iowa, a member of the American Institute of Floral Designers and an Iowa Master Florist. She routinely delivers floral design programs throughout the U.S. and Canada. Norton is one of the first to earn the Master Floral Designer certification through the MSU Extension Master Floral Designer program.

Five workshops are aimed at floral enthusiasts.

On Sept. 20, participants will learn to create a fall floral coffee mug arrangement using fresh flowers and trims.

On Oct. 8, Poeltler will guide participants in creating an autumn-themed wreath made with Mississippi-grown muscadine vine during the Fall Floral Design Seminar.

On Oct. 25, class members will learn to create a fun, fresh arrangement for Halloween.

On Nov. 29, Norton will show participants how to create a miniature boxwood Christmas tree complete with mini decorations for the tabletop.

On Dec. 6, participants will learn how to make a candlelight lantern centerpiece with holiday greenery and accents from Norton.

Certified Master Floral Designers who have completed the studio portion of the class and Master Floral Design students are invited to attend an Oct. 9 workshop. Poeltler will provide in-depth floral design from her perspective with refreshed insight on design elements. Participants will make a detailed floral handbag.

The Master Floral Designer class begins Aug. 28 for those who want to learn the basics of floral design, including dried flowers, various mechanics and accessories, and proper care and use of fresh flowers. The class is open to beginners. Participants will complete 42 hours of in-studio education and then return 40 hours of volunteer floral design service in the community to earn certification.

Registration is required and costs vary. Seating is limited. For workshop times, required tools and registration fees for each class, or to register online, visit the MSU Coastal Research and Extension Center website.

All workshops and classes will be held in the floral studio at the MSU Coastal Research and Extension Center, located at 1815 Popps Ferry Road in Biloxi.
